NEW ARMY HEAD IS PROPOSED CAPITAL READY FOR INAUGURAL

COOLIDGE AND DAWES TO TAKE OATH MARCH 4

Arrangements Completed for Impressive Ceremony of Inauguration of Nation's Chief
ALL CORNERS EARTH GUESTS
Millions Will Hear President's Speech as it is Broadcast On Radio Waves
(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The National Capital today completed arrangements for its most impressive ceremony, the quadrennial inauguration of the President and the Vice President of the United States of America.

On the East Portico of the capitol next Wednesday, with his hand on the family bible brought from the Green Mountains of Vermont, Calvin Coolidge will solemnly swear to "faithfully execute the office of President of the United States" and to the best of his ability preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States.

In the chamber of the senate, Charles Gates Dawes will take the oath as Vice-President.

A distinguished assembly, gathered from all corners of the earth, will witness the ceremony. High officials of the national government, state executives and their staffs, representatives of foreign powers and ranking officers of the army and navy will occupy conspicuous places. Thousands will crowd the great open place before the capitol. Millions more will listen to the radio carrying broadcast the President's inaugural address, sounding the keynote of the administration under which they will live for the coming four years. Throbbing wires and radio waves will carry the words to the nations overseas.

SIMPLEST POSSIBLE.
In conformity with the President's expressed wishes the entire inaugural ceremony will be the simplest possible in keeping with the dignity of the office and the prestige of the nation. Shortly before noon, the President will proceed to his room in the capitol to sign bills which will be rushed through in the last hours of the dying sixty eighth congress.

As the hands of the clock in the senate chamber approach twelve, the hour at which the old congress dies, the President and high officials will take their places on the floor. General Dawes will enter the chamber, and his oath of office as Vice-President will be administered by Senator Cummins of Iowa, President-Pro-Tempore of the Senate.

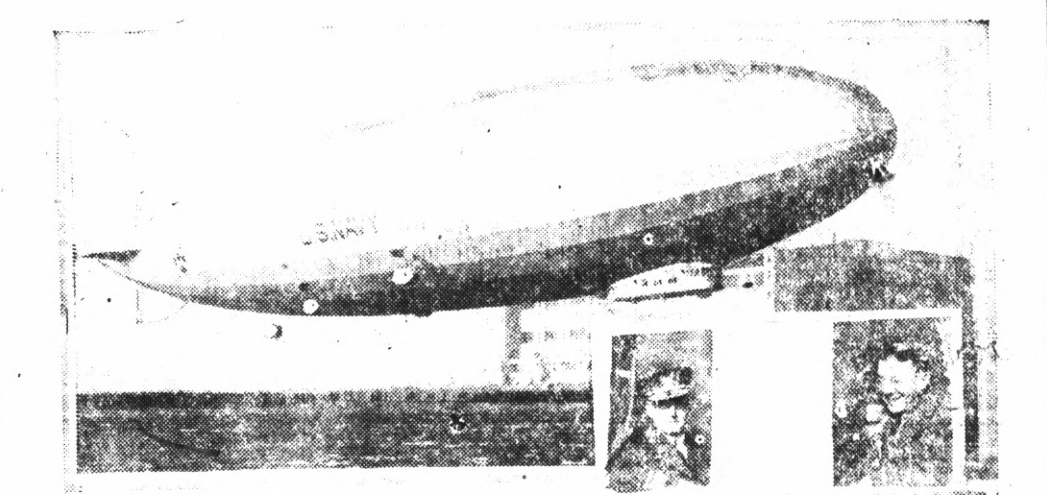

Just at noon, the new Vice-President will take the gavel from the hands of Senator Cummins and deliver a brief inaugural address. New members of the senate, elected last November, then will be sworn in, and all will proceed to the East Portico for the inauguration of the President.

TAFT TO OFFICIATE.
Chief Justice William Howard Taft, himself a former president, will administer the oath of office to President Coolidge. The President then will deliver the inaugural address outlining the policies which his administration will follow during the coming four years.

Upon the completion of the address, the President, Vice-President and other high officials will return to the White House grounds and take their places in the reviewing stand for the inaugural parade.

The procession forming near the capitol, will pass by the east front of the building at 2 o'clock and will proceed down the capitol hill to the foot of Pennsylvania avenue over which more historic parades

ESTABLISHMENT OF CLINIC AT CONCORD URGED

Establishment of a branch of the county health center, now maintained in Richmond, in eastern Contra Costa county, will be considered at a meeting of chairmen, secretaries and other representatives of the Red Cross chapters of the county to be held in Martinez on the evening of March 10, it was announced yesterday.

A special committee will urge the acceptance of the offer of the Mt. Diablo union high school at Concord to make available rooms at the school for a clinic, which would provide eye and dental service. If the committee report meets with the approval of the chapter heads a detailed plan will be worked out to insure establishment of the clinic.

The present arrangement of taking school children to Richmond for examination is declared to be unsatisfactory, and with growing demands on Red Cross officials the branch clinic is held imperative.

Husband Flirts, Charge of Wife

Charging her husband with flirting with other women and with keeping the company of one young woman almost daily since December 24, Mrs. Getty E. Franks, of Richmond, yesterday filed suit for divorce against Clinton H. Frank, an employee of the Certainated Products Company. Franks, his wife claims, is sulky and refuses to talk to her for a week at a time. She accuses her husband of declaring that if she ever filed suit for divorce he would leave her and their three children without a dime. Mrs. Franks asks custody of the children and an award of $75 monthly for their support. The couple married in 1917 and separated December 24. The suit was filed through Attorney Wilbur Pierce and T. M. Carlson.

PEDDLER IS ARRESTED

Charged with peddling goods in the city without a permit from the Chief of Police, Fontana Paola was arrested by local police officers.

She had passed than upon any other thoroughfare in the country.

Straight up the avenue to the White House, where the President's reviewing stand has been constructed, the parade will pass, disbanding by marching into adjacent streets after passing the President.

Stockton Boys Are Given Royal Reception Here

The old proverb, "Came in like a lion and went out like a lamb" was reversed yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. when the Stockton Y boys visited the local club, and went home bearing a great majority of the laurels of conflict.

Great festivities marked the coming and the going of the Stockton boys and they departed for their home city with a feeling that they had received a most royal reception.

At 6:30 p. m. the Richmond Y girls gave the visitors a "feed" that will be remembered for many, many months by the 50 Stockton and Richmond boys who enjoyed the hospitality of the pretty maids of the H-Y club.

The activities of the day started off rather late, due to the inability of the Stockton men to arrive on time but soon after their arrival at 4:30 o'clock the Standard Oil Second Volleyball team trounced the Richmond Business men's team in three fast games, 15-4, 15-13, and 15-7.

Jack Deeming refereed the game and Page Harlow and Willie Cook acted as line men. The decisions of the officials were so obviously right that there was never a question for dispute.

Immediately after this game was over the Standard Oil First Team and the Stockton Business men came onto the floor and tore through three terrific games, with the Standard Oil men walloping their opponents in three more straight games, 15-6, 15-5 and 15-10. Deeming officiated at this game also with Ed. Hill and W. J. Osborne acting in the capacity of line men and as in the previous game no disputes over the decisions of these men arose.

Next followed the H-Y Girls' basketball players, trailing close behind the famous Western States Girls of Oakland, decked out in bright new uniforms and certainly looking very formidable. The latter team was doped for a sure win but the H-Y quintet, playing their old fast consistent game, had little difficulty in romping away from them and when the final whistle shrilled the score stood 40 to 10 in the favor of the locals. Lucille Muth showed up brightly for the Richmond cagers and with excellent floor work and ability to shoot baskets from every angle proved to be the backbone of the team. Evelyn Carson refereed the contest.

The Stockton Pioneers managed to creep out on the same team from Richmond by the narrow margin of 3 points, 12 to 9. The Richmond five tried hard but were no match for all.

SECOND TRIAL OF F. CARBONE OPENS TUESDAY

Frank Carbone, of Richmond, will go to trial for the second time Tuesday in Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado's court in Martinez on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Carbone is accused of having attacked George Segritta of Richmond with a knife when he came upon Segritta escorting Mrs. Carbone and his mother-in-law on a downtown Richmond street.

Segritta is said to have been a border at the Carbone home and had left there a short time before the attack. He was cut about the face and neck. A former jury trial resulted in a disagreement.

JUDGE McCASLAND IMPROVES

Judge C. H. McCasland, who has been confined to his home in San Pablo for two or three days with influenza, is reported improving.

Their heady and speedy opponents, R. E. Mueller refereed.

The thrilling game of the day came when the Stockton Y. M. D. quintet met the Richmond Y. M. D's. The final score was 28 to 7 with Stockton on the long end but in spite of the uneven scores the game was fast and furious all the time. It was marked with many personal fouls but all were unintentional, being caused by the men endeavoring every minute to gain possession of the ball. Two men were disqualified for personal fouls but they fouled each other in their strenuous fight for the spheroid and the foul was obviously unintentional. R. E. Mueller also officiated at this contest and with his quick eye let the little past that it was his duty to see.

The cup for the champion handball player at the Y, Tom Carlson, was presented after the final game and with a few well chosen remarks the recipient of the trophy thanked Isaac Lester who made the presentation and also declared that in his opinion the Y. M. C. A. in its work among boys, young men, girls, young women—and old men, was the biggest single factor for good in Richmond.

Approximately 300 spectators and participants in the games, including the 40 visitors from Stockton, were at the Y. M. C. A. building last night and the examples of clean sportsmanship and at the same time hard playing was especially pleasing to all.

PRESIDENT OF REPUBLIC OF GERMANY DIES

Germany Mourns Death of Her First President Who Arose From Lowly Ranks

DEATH COMES UNEXPECTEDLY

Official Circles at Washington Express Regret of Death and Sympathy for People

By Karl H. VonWigart
(By Universal Service)
BERLIN, Feb. 28.—Germany is mourning the death of her first president.

The black, red and gold republican colors are floating in the wind and rain over public buildings and many private houses throughout the land. A wave of sorrow is sweeping the democratic elements of the country from one end to the other over the loss of this simple first citizen who, arising from the lowliest ranks, following the loss of the war and the revolution, piloted the country through the demoralization of defeat, the disorganization of the inflation period and the dangers of Bolshevism until the nation was again on a solid footing.

BRING CONSTERNATION

The news of president Ebert's death has brought consternation to political circles and the realization is gradually dawning on the consciousness of the people as a whole he was a man great in his tact, clear headedness, sagacity, firmness and of ostentation.

Friedrich Ebert, first President of the German Republic, died at 10:15 o'clock this morning in the West Sanatorium following a hurried operation for appendicitis at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning.

At 5 this morning he unexpectedly took a turn for the worse, his fever rose rapidly and his heart weakened. The attending physician quickly summoned Professor Bier and other specialists and notified the family.

A drawing will be held at 10 o'clock for three free prizes, as follows: First prize, one $50 suit; second prize, one $10 pair of shoes; third prize, one $7.50 hat.

County Workmen Repair Tunnel

County Surveyor R. R. Arnold has a crew of men at work replacing falling timbers on the Contra Costa end of the inter county tunnel. The weakened timbers are at the extreme end of the bore so that construction of staging within the tunnel has not been necessary as the timbers can be removed by shoveling away the earth from above. Arnold declares two weeks will be required to complete the job.

War Veterans Propose Bond Issue Election of $20,000,000

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Feb. 28.—Sponsoring a program that would assure state aid for all veterans of the world war eligible for assistance under that state farm and home purchase act, members of the state Executive and Legislative Committees of the American Legion today placed themselves on record as favoring submission to the people at the next general election of a $20,000,000 veteran bond issue.

The two Legion committees, presided over by state Commander Nathan F. Coombs based their request for a $20,000,000 bond issue in lieu of the $10,000,000 issue previously proposed in the legislature, on the ground that the larger amount would preclude the necessity of asking for more money at a future date.

State Commander Coombs, in announcing the action taken at the meeting, emphasized the point that the veteran's aid program will be carried out without cost to the State, the State merely loaning its credit to the former service men of bonds issued in purchasing homes and farms. Of the $10,000,000 worth of bonds issued in 1921 for the veteran's work, he said, more than $2,000,000 worth have already been retired by the payments of men who have received assistance under the act.

The $10,000,000 bond issue bill now before the legislature would be increased to $20,000,000 in committee, according to plans formulated at today's meeting, and if favorably acted upon by the two law making bodies the proposal would be submitted to the people in November.

Under the terms of the Veteran's legislation, men who enlisted from California are entitled to maximum loans of $5,000 for the purchase of homes, or $7,500 for the purchase of farms. All wounded and disabled men eligible for assistance under the act have already been given aid it was announced at today's session.

Richmond Teacher Struck by Street Car, Asks Damages

Georgia Swain, Richmond school principal, yesterday brought suit in Martinez against the Key System Transit company and Oscar Hedges, motorman, asking damages in the amount of $21,762 for injuries she suffered on August 26, 1924, when she was struck by a Key System car, piloted by Hedges, at Pullman station.

Miss Swain claims she was struck by the southbound car while preparing to board a northbound car. She lists her injuries as a fracture of the skull, fracture of the right car drum, which has caused permanent impairment of hearing, injuries to her eyes and right hip and nervous shock.

Of the judgment asked $20,000 is for personal injuries, $726 for salary lost through inability to teach and the remainder for medical attention.

SUCCESSOR TO MITCHELL TO BE SELECTED

Three Flying Officers, Two Of Them West Pointers, Proposed For Place

CHIEF OF ARMY AIR SERVICE

Assistant to be Appointed Would Take Chief's Place on Retirement

(By Universal Service)
By Francis J. Tietzort

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Advices from Washington, which were corroborated today in New York aviation circles, were to the effect that three flying officers, two of them west pointers were under consideration of the general staff of the army as successors to Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service.

They are: Major William N. Hensley, Jr., Commanding Officer, Mitchell Field, L. I.

Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commanding officer, Seleridge Field, Mich., and of the first parent group, the army's first line of aerial defense.

Lieutenant Colonel James E. Fecht, Commanding Officer, Kelly Field, Texas, training school of the army air service.

Colonel Fecht rose from the ranks in the cavalry, in which he became a second Lieutenant July 25, 1900. He became a Lieutenant colonel and was transferred to the air service in the summer of 1920.

Major Hensley is still a young man, being in his forty-fourth year. He has been permanently assigned in the air service since August 1920. He was graduated from West Point Military Academy in 1905 and was a colonel of the air service during the world war.

Major Hensley is regarded as a conservative as far as the General army establishment and its policies are concerned, but is rated as a progressive in the development of military and commercial aviation.

Major Lanphier, who saw aviation service overseas during the war, is thirty-four.

He was graduated from West Point in 1914 and is classed as the youngest and most expert flying Major in the army air service. Like Major Hensley he is a progressive in the development of military aviation for defense.

General Mitchell's term of appointment as assistant chief will expire in the last week of March.

It is understood that Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, who is within a few years of retirement, will be reappointed next year, and that he will resign at the retirement period, whereon it is not improbable that the then assistant chief will take his place.

Apportionment of School Funds Made

THE OTHER SIDE OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

Men band themselves together for the betterment of trades and professions. That is commercial. They form organizations for the uplift of their souls. That is ecclesiastical and sometimes religious.

They ought to form a strong nationwide association for the improvement of their morals. That is necessary.

We hear the slogans of law enforcement on every side but dead silence from most quarters on the complementary matter of law observance. We expect the sheriff to pinch all the bootleggers and gladly acclaim his successful efforts until he pinches our own bootlegger and then we cuss under our breath or cry out loud against the law, deride the honesty of its officers and make general asses of ourselves.

But a reaction is coming. Being at present in a pessimistic mood the people cannot see daylight ahead even if there is a touch of dawn. They will mistake it for some lurid glow of further vice and self-indulgence just over the horizon of their lives. But, as we said, something is at least being said about it.

United States District Judge D. Lawrence Governor of the Virginia district has recently said:

"So long as decent citizens continue to buy liquor and drink it, the underworld will continue to sell it, and in such quantities as the demand requires."

The drinker, though he is a law abiding citizen in every other respect, is even harder hit by another federal judge, Samuel H. Sibley who presides at Atlanta. Judge Sibley says:

"The real trouble is with the drinkers, who furnish the money to run the entire traffic and give it moral and even active encouragement and support. The heaviest burden of responsibility for present conditions now rests on otherwise respectable citizens, men and women having standing and influence in society, who buy and furnish intoxicants to others, who uphold and screen those from whom they buy, and by their practices and conservation make mock of the law. They not only finance the distillers and bootleggers in their operations, but make them feel safe and respectable."

"We need to think oftener of the wasted wealth, of the broken health, of the wounded hearts, of the ruined homes, and the endless trail of crimes and woes that intoxicating liquor has always left, in order to bring us willingly to forego the excitement or pleasure found in its use, and to support the laws that have come after centuries of experiment with this evil. Sit with the judge upon the bench for one week and learn of the poverty and distress, the helpless families left by those sent to prison and the chain gang, tempted by your money; all suffering that you might have a gay evening. Having seen this you could never enjoy another."

Replying to him who fondly quotes the "fermented wine" of the miracle of the wedding feast, to justify the licking up of booze, Judge Sibley continues and quotes his own passage:

"If eating meat maketh my brother to offend I will eat no meat while the world stands."

CUTTING THE PAPER WASTE

If modern business were done on a cash basis, all the gold in the world would not be sufficient to cover the transactions of a single day. It is done, the department of manufacture of the chamber of commerce of the United States points out, on paper, much of which represents an economic waste.

By the establishment of standard forms for invoices, purchase orders and inquiries, business men of the country have saved, it is estimated, $15,000,000 annually. Another notable saving has been effected by the warehouse interests which have adopted a set of fifteen forms, by means of which all their transactions may be handled, in place of an indeterminable variety of business documents devised according to the fancy of the individual business man. These fifteen sheet sizes are so designed that the recognized standard dimensions of commercial forms may be cut without loss of paper.

But the waste is not involved in paper alone. Varied forms mean more handling and more handling means more clerks, and more clerks means greater cost to be borne by the public.

"Individualism has, perhaps, in certain respects been misdirected," says the department of manufacture of the national chamber, "At least, there seems to be no absolute necessity for the thousands of sizes, types, and forms of our ordinary commercial documents. Simplification as a means of reducing some of our prevalent wastes in industry and trade is proving equally effective with regard to commercial practices when applied to the reduction of varieties, sizes and types of ordinary commodities."

French Designers Try to Revive Our Laggard Interest in Sleeves

Sooth to say the woman of today is not interested and apparently cannot be made to take an evenhanded interest in her sleeves. Who ever heard nowadays of having to alter the cut or trimming of a sleeve in order to wear a frock through the season or perhaps into the next and season? Yet that was once the case. What had to be done, and the proud little dressmaker used to advise her customers to buy enough extra material "for sleeves next year." In that way one could wear a frock a second season, thought to wear the same sleeves for more than six or seven months was something that no decently-dressed woman ever wanted to do. Now, of course, the placing of the skirt and the length of the skirt seem to be the details that indicate the vintage of a frock.

Despite our general indifference to sleeves some of the well-known designers have attached some importance to them in recent collections.

We read that Poiret, Martial, et Armant; Philippe et Gaston and other well-known French dressmakers have shown new and interesting sleeves. In the collection of frocks shown by the last-named house, the sleeves are indeed the most important consideration. We saw one wearing a new sleeve given in honor of Philippe et Gaston, just as we have worn a "Lavin" skirt.

Will this new sleeve be named in honor of Philippe et Gaston? The characteristic is snugness above the elbow with the fullness below either left flowing or gathered into a wrist band.

Other interesting sleeve developments appear in the new collections. Sleeves like the angel sleeves of yore, lace sleeves gathered into a small wrist band, a la bishop sleeve, and a tight sleeve with triple flaring cuffs of Directoire inspiration.

WHERE IT STARTED

The first use of towels occurred before the introduction of handkerchiefs. People usually carried large square pieces of cloth for drying their hands after washing or after meals; these were called "towels." French for linen or cloth. The word became corrupted to "towels," and later their use was restricted to drying purposes only.

A NEW HANDKERCHIEF
Handkerchiefs of crepe de chine are edged with pleated point d'esprit. The handkerchief, for instance, of white is edged with yellow point d'esprit.

A New Glove
A new glove has a square cuff—really a square piece like a handkerchief, with a circle cut out in the center through which the wrist is inserted. The cuff, then, falls in four points—like the four corners in the handkerchief.

A New Shoe
A wide strap across the instep is distinct feature of many of the new shoes. It is often decorated with a big buckle.

Variety in Mayonnaise
You know, from a bottle of mayonnaise, you can make a cool many different sorts of salad dressing. That is, by adding now this, now that, you can give many different flavors to the same foundation.

For instance, chopped sweet pickles give one flavor. Then try chopped onion, celery and pimiento. Or chopped green pepper and onion. Or a tablespoon of chili sauce or chopped pickle to a cup of mayonnaise. Or a little seasoned vinegar—vinegar in which cut-up onions have stood for several hours, or a few cloves, or some crushed mint, or some mustard seed.

You can lighten mayonnaise very much, for a fruit salad, by adding whipped cream. You can increase its bulk by adding good white sauce or drawn butter, and then adding seasonings, thus, of course, cheapening the salad dressing a great deal.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

DAREE, SON OF KAZAN

James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1925, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"DAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vignette Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Daree, son of Kazan, a half-breed, was nearly three weeks old when first he considered himself from home. His first adventure was a fight with an old man, who picked him up and named him. Growing hungry, he succeeded finally in catching a sheep in a creek. Soon he came upon a wolf, a huge black bear, which killed him but which did not devour him. He was found by a hunter, who took him to a cabin. The dog in him wanted to die but the wolf spirit bled stronger.

In the forest as well as in the great cities, fate plays its changing and whimsical hand. If Daree had dropped himself in the timber half an hour later he would have died. He was too far gone now to hunt for crayfish or kill the weakest bird. But he came just as Sekosew, the ermine, the most bloodthirsty little pirate of all the wild was taking a rest.

As Daree lay under his tree Sekosew was creeping on his prey. His game was a big fat spruce-bird standing under a thick cut of black currant bushes. The ear of no living thing could have heard Sekosew's movement. He was like a shadow, a gray dot here, a flash there, now hidden behind a stick no larger than a man's wrist, appearing for a moment, the next instant gone as completely as if he had not existed. Thus he approached from fifty feet to within three feet of the spruce-bird. That was his favorite striking distance. Unwittingly he launched himself at the dove's neck, gripped the throat, and his needle-like teeth sank through feathers into flesh.

Sekosew was prepared for what happened then. It always happened. And this was straight into the trapping country of Pierrrot, the hunter.

Pierrrot, until two years ago, had believed himself to be one of the most fortunate men in the big wilderness. That was before La Mort Rouge, the Red Death—came. He was half French, and he had married a Cree chief's daughter, and in their log cabin on the Gray Loon they had lived for many years in great prosperity and happiness. Pierrrot was proud of three things in this wild world of his: he was proud of Wyoma, his royal blood-brother, he was proud of his daughter, and he was proud of his reputation as a hunter. Until the Red Death came, life was quite complete for him. It was then—two years ago—that the smallpox killed his princess-wife. He still lived in the little cabin on the Gray Loon, but he was a different Pierrrot. The heart was sick in him. It would have died, had it not been for Nepeese, his daughter. His wife had named her Nepeese, which means the Willow. Nepeese, which grew up like the willow, slender as a reed, with all her mother's wild beauty, and with a little of the French thrown in. She was sixteen, with great, dark, wonderful eyes, and hair so beautiful that an agent from Montreal passing that way had once tried to buy it. It fell in two shining braids, each as big as a man's wrist, almost to her knees. "Non, M'sieu," Pierrrot had said, a cold glitter in his eyes as he saw what was in the agent's face. "It is not for barter."

Two days after Daree had entered his trapping ground, Pierrrot came in from the forests with a troubled look in his face.

"Something is killing off the young beavers," he explained to Nepeese, speaking to her in French. "It is a lynx or a wolf. Tomorrow—" He shrugged his thin shoulders, and smiled at her. "We will go on the hunt," laughed Nepeese happily, in her soft Cree.

When Pierrrot smiled at her like that, and began with "Tomorrow," it always meant that she might go with him on the adventure he was contemplating.

Still another day later, at the end of one afternoon, Daree crossed the Gray Loon on a bridge of driftwood that had wedged between two trees. This was to the north. Just beyond the driftwood bridge there was a small open, and to the edge of this Daree paused to enjoy the last of the setting sun. As he stood motionless and listening, his tail drooping low, his ears alert, his sharp-pointed nose sniffing the new country to the north, there was not a pair of eyes in the forest that would not have taken him for a young wolf.

From behind a clump of young balsams, a hundred yards away, Pierrrot and Nepeese had watched him come over the driftwood bridge. Now was the time, and Pierrrot leveled his rifle. It was not until then that Nepeese touched his arm softly. Her breath came a little excitedly as she whispered: "Nootaw, let me shoot. I can kill him!"

With a low chuckle Pierrrot gave the gun to her. He counted the whelp as already dead. For Nepeese, at that distance, could send a bullet into an inch square nine times out of ten. And Nepeese, aiming carefully at Daree, pressed steadily with her brown forefinger upon the trigger.

Pleasing Bill of Vaudeville Today at "California"

There is plenty of comedy and play in the big five act vaudeville bill at the California Theatre today, with Davey Jamieson and the Whirlwind Four heading the bill in conjunction with the screen feature "One Night in Rome," featuring Laurette Taylor.

As exponents of strength and dexterity, Bender and Knapp, two young athletes are hard to beat, with the utmost ease they accomplish some astonishing stunts in hand to hand balancing feats. There is an athletic offering that not only entertains but is educational as well.

"Nonsense Nothing But," is the bill of Howard and Hill, a comedy couple with a line of bright chatter, and a song or two.

Davey Jamieson offers a series of national terpsichorean efforts and injects a deal of good humor that is infectious.

Joe Simonich Puts Crimp in Would-be Champ with Kayoy

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Joe Simonich put a serious crimp in the championship aspirations of "Lefty" Cooper of Minneapolis, when he knocked out the latter in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Dreamland rink tonight.

The knockout was entirely unexpected, both fighters having slugged blow for blow throughout the match, with Cooper having a slight edge. A left to the stomach put Cooper out in the eighth and it was 10 minutes later before he had fully revived.

In the semi-wind-up Sammy Campagno and Welden Wing went six rounds to a draw.

Young Riley beat Frankie Brown in six rounds.

Sammy Sandow beat Sidney White in four rounds.

Kid Saeco stopped "Mickey" White in the first round.

RIP VAN WINKLE WOULD BE MORE THAN AMAZED IF HE AWOKE IN STEEL PACKAGE COMPANY PLANT

Prepared by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

If Rip Van Winkle, reputed to be the long distance sleeper in the history of mankind, should come to life in the midst of one of Richmond's thriving industries today he would probably be dizzier than he was after taking a swing from the cask of his mountain friend who lead him to the cave for a game of ten pins.

No this is not an announcement of a big raid on kegs of prewar stuff.

But as we said before if our old friend Rip should happen to come to Richmond he'd probably find no time to try to break his previous record if he tried to watch the kegs and containers lying around the Republic Steel Package Company north of Richmond.

It's almost impossible to give a clear comprehensive idea of the plant unless you are ready to take a trip through the establishment with us under the direction of H. H. Mylander, treasurer of the company. Mylander is first assistant to S. B. Merry who is the president of the plant which is the western branch of the same company at Cleveland, Ohio.

ORIGINAL WESTERN PLANT

We are informed on entering the large room immediately behind the office that this is the original plant started about three years ago when the demand for steel containers became too large to be handled from the eastern plant. Another reason for the local branch is the fact that it is impossible to ship the containers any great distance without heavy loss. This is only when shipped empty however.

This large machine shop was at one time the entire plant, now it houses only the heavy barrel department. Here heavy barrels are made for the shipment of oils and greases. Two types are made one for continuous shipment and another lighter type for one trip shipments.

The first process is the cutting of the flat sheets of blue annealed sheets into the proper size. The blank for the head and the formation thereof is performed by one operation. The embossing of the head is also done in the same operation. Then the head goes to a smaller press for the cutting out of a vent and bung holes. These are put into order at the request of the customer. The rolling of the body sheets is next in order.

PASSED ON TO WELDER

Then they go to the welder who with the assistance of an acetylene torch completes the beginning of the formation of the container. At the same time flanges are being welded by the same method into the vent and bung openings. For the light barrel the next operation is the heading or swedging of the rolling hoop into the shell or body of the barrel. For the heavy barrels the application of an I-Bar rolling hoop is substituted.

From here on the operation is the same for both the light and heavy barrel. A flang is turned on each end of the body before going to the double seamer which is the machine which double seams the head of the body of the barrel making five thicknesses of metal at the point where the head is joined to the body. This according to our guide, makes the container absolutely air and liquid tight.

The setting of the container is similar to the process you use on your inner tube. Compressed air is forced into the container which is submerged in a tank of water. If any leaks are found the barrel goes to the patcher. Those found perfect roll on into the painting room.

LESSON ON EFFICIENCY

Incidentally if you want a lesson on the elimination of waste motion watch the painters make the brushes and the barrel do a one act rolling comedy in thirty seconds at the end of which time the container is completely painted. And all the painter uses is an ordinary paint brush. But in the words of the modern flapper "he slings a mean brush."

From the paint brush we go to the acetylene gas plant. The large amount of this gas that is used by the plant makes it necessary that they make their own gas. In the same building is the machine shop where repair work is done for the various machines in the plant.

Since the opening of the plant here a heavy demand has been found for large underground tanks for the storage of gas and fuel oil. Two departments have been added for this type of container. One is for the making of welded tanks and the other for the manufacture of riveted tanks. These are made to contain as high as 2,000 gallons.

Plans are now being made for an enlargement of the riveted tank department. The new improvements will permit the manufacture of these tanks up to 35,000 gallon capacity. These tanks are the ones used by the refineries for the storage of gasoline and crude oil.

STORAGE SHED VISITED

The storage shed is next in order and we find that approximately $145,000 worth of steel is carried at all times. "It won't burn and it's too heavy to carry away, and we might need it." We guess that's a reason enough why such a large amount of money should be lying around without at least a squad of policemen on guard.

The part of the plant where the single trip containers are made is next in order. Here containers are made for all kinds of powdered (Continued on Page Five)

Presbyterians Arrange Easter Musical Program

Preparations for the presentation of their Easter music and for the rendition of Gounod's "Gloria" on Good Friday evening are being made by the choir of the First Presbyterian church. Miss Mable Carter has been secured as director of the choir and she is being assisted in her work by Miss Jessie L. Macdonald, soprano soloist, and E. R. Bailey of Berkeley as organist.

Long experience as a director and church soloist is to the credit of Mrs. Carter and under her charge a well trained choir is being produced with which to provide music for the regular Sunday services and for the extra numbers for Good Friday and Easter.

The Junior Intermediate society of the church will hold a rally this evening at 6:15 o'clock in the church which will be attended by some of the county officers.

There will be a song service led by Miss Roberta Baird, Prayer, Miss Selma Hardesty, Address, Mr. Hammond county president of C. E. Solo, Ida Euzeking, Talk, Miss Reid, assistant superintendent. CO-OPERATIVE SOCIAL CLUB DANCE IS HELD

This club is becoming very popular with its dances among the young people of Richmond. They formerly occupied a much smaller hall but were forced to move to the large W. O. W. hall and this fact emphasizes the popularity of the dances.

WHIST PARTY HELD BY PYTHIAN SISTERS

A most enjoyable whist party was given last night by Contra Costa Temple No. 113, Pythian Sisters, at Pythian castle. The whist was preceded by a short business session at which it was decided that hereafter the meeting night of the lodge would be on Friday instead of on Saturday. The next meeting night will therefore be on March 6. The Sewing club of the Pythian Sisters will meet on March 5 in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frances Michel at 541 Fourth street. A good attendance is requested as an election of officers is to be held. Evelyn Miller, most excellent chief, presided during the business meeting.

Delightful refreshments followed the whist party at which first prizes were given to Miss Irene Powers and to the following in the order named: Mrs. Ida Gordon, Paul Zimmerman, Mrs. M. Campbell, Mrs. Schumacher, Mrs. B. Jensen. The door prize was awarded to Mrs. Hall Bayvel.

Church Basketball League Season End

The basketball season as far as the Church league is concerned was wound up at the Y. M. C. A. last night with the First Baptists trouncing the Wesley M. E.'s 21 to 14 and the St. Edmunds walking away from the San Pablo Baptists 28 to 6.

The first game was fast, furious and tight the entire time up to the last canto but at that time the Baptists forced ahead and clinched the game.

The lineup for the first game was as follows:

Baptists: Woods and Allen, forwards; Church center; Cook and Parker, guards; D'Arch and Speers, substitutes.

Wesleys: B. Hoskins and Crighter, guards; Frechey, centers; J. Hoskins, forward; and Axelson, forward.

The second game was a slow affair with the St. Edmunds scoring often and with ease.

San Pablo's: Pinto and Rhoads, forwards; Galonise, center; Percy and Mortzoa, guards; Nevis, substitute.

Tom Meighan is Starring Today at "Richmond"

Thrilling rescue at sea, terrific storms said to equal in realism nature in her angriest mood, an unusually appealing love theme—these are the principal features of "Home-ward Bound" a new Paramount picture starring Thomas Meighan, which will be in view at the Richmond Theatre today only.

Lila Lee, who played opposite Mr. Meighan in "The Xer-Do-Well," is his leading woman in this new screen offering.

Mr. Meighan is a seaman in this delightfully crisp story, while Miss Lee is the daughter of a ship owner who unaccountably detests the sailor in his employ. He is unaware that Jim Bedford, the sailor in question, loves his daughter, and that she returns his love. She goes to sea in a palatial yacht, the command of which had been wrested by Bedford from Svenson a cowardly skipper. This sets in motion a series of thrilling events which goes far to make this perhaps the best sea picture screened in many months. Of course, the finish, although surprising, is pleasing to the spectator.

Other features on the same program include those little rascals "Our Gang" in their latest hilariously funny comedy entitled "Sunday Calm;" "Kinograms," built like a newspaper.

products. Work is under way here for the installation of machinery which will manufacture paint cans and is the latest type of electric side welder. This new machinery will have a capacity of 1,000 containers per day. Machinery in this department now has a capacity of 3,000 powder kegs and 1,000 other single containers per day.

The smaller containers go through practically the same process as the larger containers with the exception that it is not necessary to weld the flanges. The side seams are locked with a machine and the same process is used in putting on the heads. The smaller kegs are dipped and after passing through a dryer go directly into a car for shipment.

Square and rectangular containers also made in this part of the plant. In fact any kind of tank or metal container, desirable can be made here.

NEW MACHINE ADDED

A new machine for the manufacture of powder kegs is being placed at the present time. With this machine one man will be able to turn out 5,000 kegs in the time it now takes three men to turn out 2,500.

Approximately 80 men are employed at the plant at all times. The output of the plant is taken up largely by local consumers. The containers are shipped by rail to points up and down the Pacific Coast. Although a large number of the containers are used within a radius of but a few miles of the plant they are shipped by rail rather than truck.

Enlargements made necessary at the plant during the last year clearly indicate according to the officials of the company that Richmond and the surrounding community is coming into its own as an industrial section.

ruined

Many a first impression has been ruined by some seemingly little thing.

IT'S so easy to get off on the wrong foot with people—whether it be in an important business contact or simply in a casual social meeting.

It pays in life to be able to make people like you. And so often it is some seemingly very little thing that may hold you back.

For example, quite unconsciously you watch a person's teeth when he or she is in conversation with you. If they are unclean, improperly kept, and if you are a fastidious person, you will automatically hold this against them. And all the while this same analysis is being made of you.

Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. It has been chemically developed to remove the cause of bad breath and to keep the mouth in a healthy condition.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have found for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

MANY BOOKS IN LIBRARY HERE
ON NEW RUSSIARICHMOND PUBLIC LIBRARY IS ABREAST OF TIMES WITH NEW PUBLICATIONS

However impatient one may be of revolution in general and of the Russian Revolution in particular it remains that Russia cannot be disregarded in her connection with world relations. On account of her great size and her great possibilities she must come to play her part in the future of the world. This future of Russia is now in the making and may be followed through the pages of some of the new books. Some understanding of the Russian people may be gained through the novels of Tolstoi and Dostoevski and other Russian novelists whose books are in the public library of Richmond.

The few recent books listed below are all of outstanding interest. The interested reader who wishes to read further will find at the library all of the important books on the subject from 1917 to date.

VIROBOVA—MEMORIES OF THE RUSSIAN COURT. 1923.

Remarkable for its picture of the weak ineffectual czar.

GOLDMAN—MY DISILLUSIONMENT IN RUSSIA. 1923.

How the Revolution looked to Emma Goldman the famous anarchist.

HARRISON—UNFINISHED TALES FROM A RUSSIAN PRISON. 1923.

The author is an American newspaper woman who was imprisoned for a time during the Revolution. These sketches are about the women she knew in the prison.

ROSS—THE RUSSIAN SOVIET REPUBLIC. 1923.

Professor Ross has a sane and candid attitude towards Russia and writes in a spirit of fair play.

SOROKIN—LEAVES FROM A RUSSIAN DIARY. 1925.

One of the most important books on the revolution. The author, a Russian, now a professor at the University of Minnesota, was a revolutionist in 1917 but later came to be a suspect by the Soviet and after several years of hardship was finally deported. This no longer a revolutionist he hints at other forces which are today at work to bring about better conditions in Russia.

BUCHANAN—RECOLLECTIONS OF IMPERIAL RUSSIA. 1924.

Sketches the history of Russia from earliest times as traced through her rulers. Aims to give a better understanding of the Russians as a people. Miss Buchanan lived many years in Petrograd where her father was British Ambassador up to and including the outbreak of the revolution.

MODERN ATLANTIC LINERS, TRULY CITIES OF THE SEA

Ocean Travel Now
Has All Conveniences of Life On Shore, Plus Delights
of Sea Journey

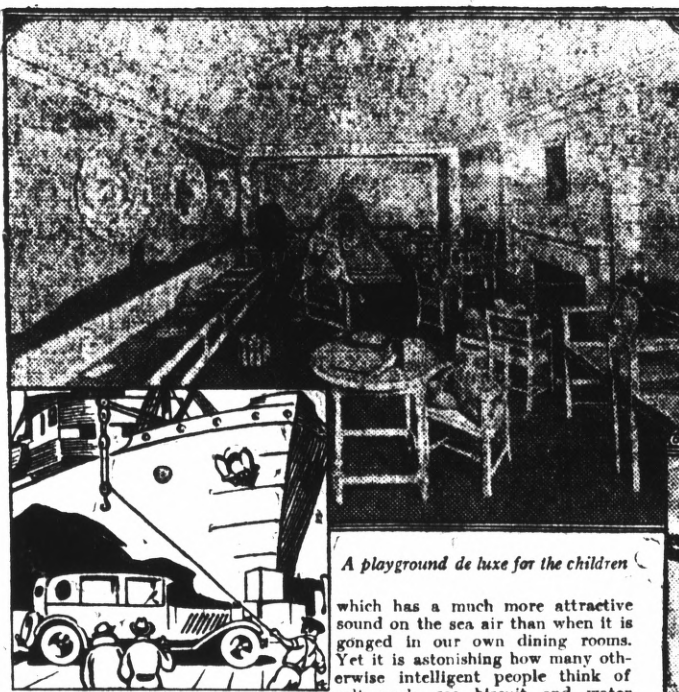

By ELIZABETH JEFFRIES

When our fathers and grandfathers crossed the ocean to find the families of which we are the proud members today, they were not very talkative on landing, of the comfort, cheer and conveniences of the voyage. To them the trip was an adventure, seldom a recreation, and although some of the more memorable of these hazardous enterprises made heroes of the passengers, their experiences were never referred to as cheerful.

There are thousands of people in America, however, who yet envisage an ocean trip in terms of half a century ago. They are "all at sea" regarding the improvements that have come to sea travel in recent years.

To the true grass-green landsman it comes as a bewildering surprise to step aboard the liner that is to take him for holiday in Europe, and be ushered by a smart liveried attendant into a beautifully furnished elevator, that takes him up to the deck where his cabin is located. But this is but an insignificant introduction. My travels on the steamers of many lines have revealed to me, that the competition between cities ashore, to boost the beauty and industry of our great municipalities, is as nothing compared to the manner in which the various Trans-Atlantic Steamship companies vie with each other to give the modern over-the-sea vacationist, all the comforts of home and some of the luxuries that he can afford at home.

When a few years ago, Atlantic liners first became "palatial" they were frequently referred to them as "floating hotels" but such scriptive phrase is totally inadequate today. They are cities of the sea, floating model communities, possessing all the conveniences of life ashore, with delights that cities ashore can never have. Where is the hotel that will publish your morning newspaper, provide you with your Sunday Church service or your Saturday night movie with adjuncts of a bank, department store or children's nursery according to your needs? Yet these can be found at sea. All the complex needs of a modern American community can be met today in the middle of the Atlantic ocean much better than in the middle of an American prairie. Indeed many a vacationist from remote American villages has testified that his first experience of the modern conveniences of life was on an ocean liner.

Of course, every one expects food on the trip as among the choicest things aboard ship should be mentioned the sound of the dinner bell.

Here is comfort and luxury

From deck to deck by elevator garage on board. Were you planning to select a few favorite authors to relieve what you are pleased to call the "tedium" of the voyage? Leave them at home, for the shelves of the library on board will supply a book for every mood, which you can read in the deep lounge chairs, in the smoking room or the parlors before a cheerful open fire. Do not make the mistake of some unthinking parents and leave the children at home, because you think they will be "in the way," for they will have the time of their lives in the ship's nursery, with the games, toys and sand-boxes that provide more fun than the park or the backyard. For your own physical fitness, you can stroll up to the gymnasium or down to the plunge and swimming pool, play a foursome at deck golf, or engage in deck lawn racing. If you do not care to follow the crowd who play deck tennis and shuffle board. Years ago, folk used to smile knowingly when reference was made to "walking on the sea" because of the co-relative necessity of sea-legs. Today, walking tours and contests are a regular feature of each day. So motionless is life aboard on the summer Atlantic as the steamer "knives" its way through the waves, that the ships doctors have performed delicate surgical operations. The old sea game of "who sees land first" has been sunk into oblivion. Nobody wants to see land or rather everybody is so busy and happy with their new acquaintance, or planning amateur theatricals, or a Punch and Judy show or balls, and dances, or enjoying the orchestra, that the announcement of land comes as a surprise.

RADIANT COLOR
CELEBRATION

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—The radiant colorful illumination of the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in 1915 will be eclipsed by the illumination of San Francisco for California's Diamond Jubilee celebration next September if the plans outlined by W. D'Arcy Ryan at a meeting of the Jubilee organization's Lighting and Decorating Committee yesterday are adopted.

Ryan, who achieved world wide fame as the creator of the brilliant illumination of the Exposition, has been made a member of the committee planning the lighting and decorating of San Francisco for the Diamond Jubilee. He was the guest and principal speaker at a luncheon meeting called yesterday by Frank E. Carrol, chairman of the committee. At the luncheon were: W. D. Fennimore, E. E. Schmitz, L. F. Walsh, Edgar Peixotto, Timothy A. Reardon, Joseph Summing and Angelo J. Rossi, chairman of the Diamond Jubilee Executive Committee.

In his talk Ryan declared that San Francisco is regarded everywhere as one of the most artistically and most efficiently illuminated cities in the world.

TO SHINE LIKE DIAMOND.

During the Diamond Jubilee celebration here Ryan declared that it would be a comparatively simple matter to create a spectacle of brilliant illumination such as no other city had ever achieved. San Francisco he said, lent itself perfectly to an illumination scheme embracing all the wizardry and glamor of modern lighting.

In the discussion that followed, it was emphasized that during the Jubilee celebration San Francisco should be made to shine like a diamond and that as far as possible whatever illumination planned and adopted should include lighting fixtures that would be permanent. It was pointed out that a plan already

Motorists Are Warned to Get
New Licenses

SACRAMENTO, FEB. 28.—A final call to motorists to make application for their 1925 license plates was issued today by Will H. Marsh, Chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Applications presented or placed in the mails before midnight of Monday will be honored, Marsh said, but all persons making application after that time will be compelled to pay a double fee. For an ordinary passenger car this means the owner will pay $6 instead of $3 while in case of trucks or other commercial vehicles the penalty may run as high as $25 or $30.

"The law is specific in this matter and we have no alternative. Last year we collected more than $10,000 in penalties and it looks as if this amount will be much greater this year as large numbers of motorists have thus far failed to make application."

Marsh plans to instruct the traffic officers to arrest all persons driving with 1924 license plates as soon as the applications filed with the division have been cleared.

In making application motorists should submit the pink certificate together with the white certificate but the white certificate will be accepted if they cannot secure the pink.

exists to illuminate the City hall dome and the outline of the City Hall. It was also proposed to create in Chinatown a system of illumination that would be oriental in atmosphere and that would remain a permanent feature of San Francisco's street lighting. An appropriation of $75,000 or $100,000 by the Diamond Jubilee Finance Committee for the lighting and decorating of the city during the week's celebration was made at the meeting and will be taken up by the Executive Committee.

Ryan stated that within 60 days he would have prepared a comprehensive scheme for the Jubilee illumination to submit to the committee. He is engaged at present in the creation of the lighting features of the Knights Templar triennial convocation to be held in Seattle in July.

Some Hobbies are Worth Millions—What is Yours? Asks Noted Inventor

WHAT'S your hobby? The pages of history do not need to be turned back very far to reveal inviting romances in the hobbies of men of world affairs. Abraham Lincoln's spare time allured him to inventive aspirations and at least one of his devices were patented though never put to practical use.

Theodore Roosevelt through his hobby left a wealth of rare mounted specimens of wild game caught in the remotest spots and now exhibited in the biggest museums. The present King of England has one of the finest collections of stamps in the world and is continually adding to it.

J. P. Morgan, acknowledged as a leading capitalist, devoted his time to collecting books and developed one of the finest libraries in the world. Andrew Carnegie is said to have retained on his payroll several Scotch bagpipers to awaken the "Laird of Skibo" by playing familiar Scotch airs under the window of his home in Scotland.

Thomas A. Edison, inventor of almost innumerable devices, finds relaxation in his laboratory. Marconi, accredited with developing wireless telegraphy, the forerunner of the modern "radio," spends much of his time on a yacht, almost completely enveloped with electrical devices.

At the present time, in New York,

Harrison Boyce, celebrated inventor and automotive engineer, has a most unusual and extremely engaging hobby. He collects automobiles. Relics of the past together with new models are gathered together in an interesting assemblage.

This diversion has gradually unfolded into an absorbing game which has resulted in several worthwhile inventions in motor equipment. At the rear of the Boyce home in Jericho, Long Island, an old stable has been converted into an up-to-date garage where a number of these cars are housed. The collection contains cars of every model from those of bygone days to the most modern machines on the American market.

It is in this manner that he has hit upon many of the inventions which have made his name famous in automotive circles. For example, the idea of a motor heat indicator came from this source of inspiration, resulting in the famous Boyce Moto-Meter. Several years later he became convinced of the need of a super-fuel ingredient and carbon preventive in the same manner. The result was Boyceite which has now become a staple product in the automotive field.

All day long, in his office in New York, Boyce wrestles with some of the knottiest problems which confront the manufacturer of automotive accessories. When he goes home at night and just by way of relaxation amuses himself adjusting carburetors or putting one of his relics to some unusual test.

He employs men to drive a number of the more recent models over a certain distance each week and to keep account of gasoline and oil consumption, tire mileage, maintenance costs—in fact, of every detail which effect cost and ease of operation.

"This car for example, said Mr. Boyce, pointing out one model, 'has been operated over 61,000 miles and we have accurate figures covering every mile of operation. In the side pocket of all these cars is a record book in which the current figures are kept. Many of these figures are not only interesting but are also valuable because they point the way toward better and more economical methods of operation."

"It is a strange thing that more car owners do not keep similar records," said Boyce. "Car owners have only very vague ideas on these subjects. But if figures of this sort were kept it would be very easy for a man to know exactly what to look for when purchasing new cars from time to time."

So, all in all, this hobby has proved a profitable one. While Boyce's collection in itself has very little value the ideas which have come from it have been worth millions to him and have saved the car owners both here and abroad millions more.

W. S. MCRACKEN
TO OPEN STORE
WITH PROGRAMVALUABLE PRIZES TO BE GIVEN
AWAY AS PART OPENING
CELEBRATION MON. NIGHT

When W. S. McRacken moves into the building formerly occupied by the Independent on next Monday night he will have taken the fourth step in business advancement. This night will mark the official opening and arrangements have been made to make the affair one of the most impressive.

The building has been renovated to suit the needs of such a store as McRacken's and the public will see a completely transformed interior. The show cases are done in paneled oak with tile approach and are of the most striking in Richmond. Heavy inlaid linoleum will cover the floor of the interior.

The office of the establishment will be in the rear downstairs while the tailoring department and stock will occupy the second floor. Downstairs the clothing cases with a golden oak finish which have already been installed, will run the full length of the store on the right hand side. In the center will be the hat and shoe departments while on the left will be the men's furnishings.

Prizes To Be Awarded

As there are a series of skylights both for the first and second floor, the building will be brightly lighted in the daytime.

A program of musical selections by Dennis Shaw's orchestra will be included in the opening and some valuable prizes including a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes and a hat will be given away.

The old line of stock has been almost entirely sold out so the McRackens will offer an entirely new stock of merchandise in the new location, although it will be along the same lines as formerly.

The active management of the store will be in the hands of Ward McRacken, son of W. S. McRacken, and the advertising and credit end of the business will be handled by Mark Wilson. Also connected with the new house will be Ben Arnitz, salesman, Emmett Vestal, tailor, Frank Clover, salesman, card writer and window trimmer.

ESTABLISHED IN 1904

The McRackens have been closely identified with both business and civic affairs and are well and favorably known here. The first clothing store of W. S. McRacken was founded in Richmond to the day he arrived here in 1920 and his development has been closely identified with the growth of the city. The West Side was the location of the first store but in 1910 he was forced by increased business to open another store on Macdonald avenue between Second and Third. The building at 526 Macdonald which he is now vacating was occupied in 1914.

Remodeling of the new building was under the supervision of Wallace Snelgrove, general contractor. Zeh Knott and his assistants handle the decorating and painting; lighting fixtures by the Pacific Electrical Manufacturing company; linoleum furnished and laid by the Richmond Furniture company; and mill work by Petersen Brothers.

New Ownership of West Side Store

The store formerly owned by Pulsed Brothers but recently purchased by Charles Ceredoni, well known Richmond man, will be opened under new management next Monday under the name of West Side Market. The store is located at 147 West Richmond avenue.

For the purpose of building up the business of the store, Ceredoni will run several specials each week so that housewives may learn where they may obtain great value for their money. Ceredoni will be wished the greatest success by his many friends in Richmond.

Court Case Open To Consumers All Avenues Of Food Distribution

Urge Modification of Packers' Consent Decree in Interest of Public

WHETHER the consuming public and producers of food articles shall have available all channels of food distribution is the question raised in proceedings recently instituted in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. The case involves the so-called packers' consent decree of 1920, under which five of the large packing companies agreed to cease handling certain commodities which are also handled by wholesale grocers.

Since the decree became effective certain growers and canners of fruits and vegetables who were not parties to it have asked to have it changed so that the packers could continue to market their products. These producers cut off under the decree from distributing through the packers, maintain that distribution of their products to the public is now restricted to wholesale grocers. In other words, one well established and efficient method of reaching the consumer, they hold, is closed to a large number of growers and canners of important articles of food consumption.

Two wholesale grocers' associations have opposed any modification of the decree. But so strong has been the demand for a change that the Attorney General some time ago ordered a hearing before a government committee representing the Departments of Justice, Commerce and Agriculture, which decided that the question of modifying the decree should be decided by the court. Last May the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia decided that the canners had the right to be heard on their request that the decree be modified. And in the pending case the Supreme Court is now asked to decide not only whether the decree should be modified, but also whether it should remain in effect at all. The public interest involved in the case was significantly pointed out by the Court of Appeals which said:

If the charge... is true, that the wholesale grocers are using the decree against the packers to strengthen and build up a giant monopoly in their various and varied lines of business, there would seem to be demand for a searching inquiry as to whether or not the court is being used as an agency to restrain one monopoly and thereby promote, strengthen and build up another. Clearly it is not the policy of the Anti-Trust Act to accomplish this result. Nor will the decree of the court below, declaring the packers' combination illegal under the Anti-Trust Act, be sustained if its effect is to safeguard one public interest by the destruction of another. One of the vital parts of the Consent Decree was a stipulation that it should in no way constitute an admission or finding that the packers in handling the distribution of these so-called unrelated lines were violating any law. Since the decree became effective it has been charged by those who oppose any change in it that the decree did imply such a violation. The packers maintain that such a charge is a violation of the terms of the decree itself and that, therefore, the decree should be annulled.

STAGE FARES ON REDWOOD ROUTE TO BE REDUCED

Application for general reduction in passenger fares to become effective April 1st, is being filed with the State Railroad Commission by the West Coast Transit Co. Inc., operators of Redwood Highway Stage between San Francisco, Eureka and Crescent City, according to announcement issued from the office of Clyde Edmondson, General Passenger Agent for the line, in San Francisco.

The principal reason for this action, according to officials of the company, is the reduced cost of operating passenger motor coach equipment made possible by the thorough work of the California Highway Commission in generally improving the condition of the Redwood Highway between San Francisco and the Oregon line.

Similarly, it was stated that improvements carried out by the various County Supervisors and by the U. S. Forestry Division, on the highways within their respective jurisdictions, has brought about a reduction on the lateral routes of the system between Eureka, Red Bluff, Redding and Yreka.

REDUCES MAINTENANCE
The programs of these various highway bodies of re-routing portions of the highway, eliminating curves, widening roads, and bettering the roadbed itself, according to the company's cost sheets, have proved important factors in reducing maintenance, depreciation, tire, fuel and other kindred operating expenses.

This general reduction in operating cost the West Coast Transit Company proposes to pass along to the traveling public in the form of reduced one way and round trip fares. These adjustments, together with the advantages resulting from the recent consolidation of thirteen different stage lines into one unit—the present Redwood Highway Stage and Tour System—promises first class motor transportation facilities, at a low rate, and from all points in the northwest, between San Francisco and Grants Pass, with economical fares.

June Annual of High School to Be Best Issued

Reports are rife that the June Annual of the Richmond Union high school is to surpass any that have been issued by the school. The annual staff is hard at work gathering items of athletic, social, and study sides of school life as well as getting together many pictures to be used to make the book interesting.

Miss Mary Finley is the art editor and she is being assisted by the other members of the staff. Miss Finley assured the students that all good snapshots that are turned in will be used.

There are approximately 630 students in the school and only 400 annuals are to be printed so all those who wish to obtain the books are requested to get their tickets from any high senior as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.

Local Red Cross 'Asks Needy Aid'

For the benefit of needy people here who are suffering for lack of proper clothing, an urgent appeal is being sent forth by the local Red Cross for shoes, clothes or any other articles of apparel that can be spared.

If you can spare any thing from your wardrobe, even if it does seem that they are too good to be thrown away "just yet" your donation will be greatly appreciated by the Red Cross and more so by the people to whom they are given. If you have no way to get your contribution to the Red Cross headquarters, Mrs. March at Richmond 424 will gladly call for them.

NEW CANYON ROUTE

It was further pointed out that the new routing through the canyon above Willits, constantly being improved by the Highway Commission following the Eel river for over 60 miles almost to Eureka, open an attractive water level route, winding in and out of the many groves of giant redwoods. Also, the new bridge across the Klamath River near Requa will save both time and money in the operation of both through and local schedules.

That the final completion of the Eureka and Crescent City will open up a 97-mile drive that should prove a lure to thousands of travelers, is the opinion of civic organizations in that territory. A portion of this section of the Redwood Highway was carved out of the solid cliff for several miles leading into Crescent City. Equally scenic will be the northernmost stretch of the Redwood Highway—between Crescent City and Grants Pass.

With these and other improvements, resulting in lower fares and more convenient schedules, figures and cost analyses prove that "motorists will find it less expensive to ride in motor coach equipment than to drive their own automobiles."

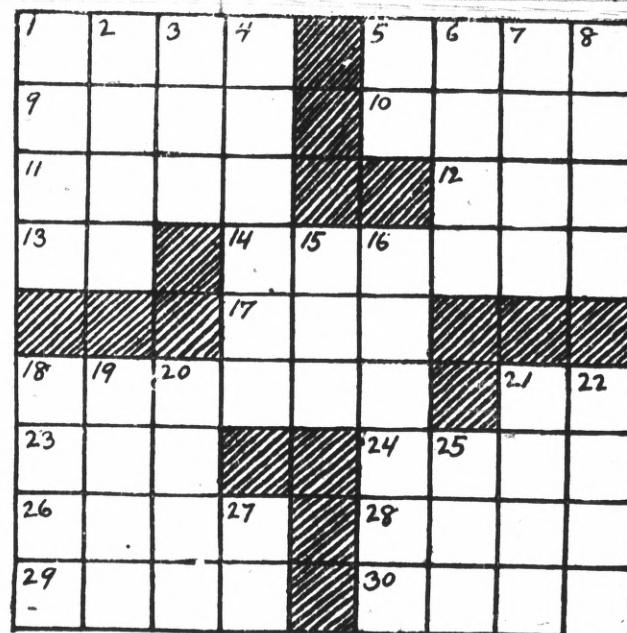

Daily Cross Word Puzzle

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white space remain uninterruptedly.

HITT AND RUNN—Something Besides a Sermon Must Have Impelled Gus to Go to Church In the First Place!

BY HITT

Sunday at the Churches

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH

Redmen's hall, Eleventh and Nevins. S. T. Himes, Ph. D., minister; E. J. Evans, supt. of the Sunday school. Sunday school begins at 10:30. The subject of the lesson is "Jesus in Gethsemane." Here Jesus often went to pray. At this particular time He bore the burden of the sins of the whole world. This specific place of prayer meant very much to Jesus. And in submission to the Father's will He drank of the bitter cup without hesitation. The way of the cross was the only way for man's redemption. So we are taught to bear the cross and win the crown. The catechism class meets every Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock service and sermon by the pastor, will be on the subject: "Jesus is Tempted by the Devil." The fact that Jesus fasted for 40 days while he was in the wilderness reminds us of the Lenten days before the glad Easter day, which have already begun. These days are to awaken a consciousness of sin and Satan, and the great need of repentance and faith towards God. The three great temptations of Jesus by the Devil, and His power to resist and defeat His purpose in each case, teach us to recognize and follow the great captain of our salvation in view of personal triumph over this same adversary. Reception of members and special music at this service.

Further league at 6:30 p. m. Topic for discussion, "The Cost of Friendship." Miss Wanda Gardell will lead the meeting. Remember the time and place for these services and come and receive a friendly greeting.

The ever-increasing flight of time has again reached the blessed season of Lent. It is a period of the year in which the church calls upon its members to meditate anew on that awful tragedy enacted upon Calvary. In these days when the world is so torn by doubts and fears, when people are groping for light and leadership and clamoring for a solution of so many problems, when even the outspoken enemies of Christianity are viewing with alarm the increasing wave of immorality and crime, when materialism and pleasure-madness are keeping so many close to this sin-ridden earth, men will do well to look away from the vain and vanishing things of this world and behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." (John 1:29.)
In the regular Lenten services, which will be held every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock for a period of five weeks, the pastor will address the congregation in a series of sermons portraying the suffering Savior, as He treads the path-way of agony from Gethsemane to the Cross. The subject of tomorrow's sermon will be "We Preach Christ Crucified." Ernest Scaer, accompanied on the organ by Mr. Meyer, will sing an appropriate Lenten song.
The Sunday school, under the supervision of the pastor, will begin promptly at 9 o'clock. Subject of the lesson, "The Lord's Supper." An efficient corps of teachers will be in charge of the various departments. Your child is cordially invited to attend this hour of children's worship.

All Creeds Help Build Cathedral; To Hold Services In Nine Languages

A rivaling the venerable edifices of the Old World, is soon to be pushed to completion in New York, not far from the center of the city's busiest scenes. People of all creeds and races have responded to an appeal for $15,000,000 necessary to complete the building and there is now every assurance that what St. Paul's is to England, and Notre-Dame to France, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine will be to America.

On Morningside Heights, where the battle of Harlem was fought on September 16, 1876, several sections of the cathedral are already completed. The copper roofs of the choir and the seven chapels have been familiar landmarks for some years past.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine, although a Protestant Episcopal church, is often spoken of as a "cathedral for all the people." Around the section of the building known as the Choir have been built the seven Chapels of Tongues. They derive their name from the fact that they are intended for services in the languages of the principal regions of the world. In these various chapels are held services in Japanese, Chinese, Welsh,

Danish, Spanish, French, Italian and other foreign languages. One of the chapels is also used for services in English for colored people. When completed, the cathedral will be more than a tenth of a mile in length and its maximum width will be more than half that distance. It will cover an area equal to 109,082 square feet and will be

1) REMODEL THEATRE BOOTH
Mrs. Francis Heim was issued a building permit yesterday by E. E. Grow, building inspector, to remodel an operator booth at Macdonald theatre at a cost of $250.

TO OUR PATRONS AND FRITNDS WHO HAVE MADE SUCH KINDLY INQUIRIES, EITHER BY PHONE, LETTER OR PERSONAL CALL, REGARDING THE TROUBLE CAUSED OUR HERB SPECIALIST BY THE AGENTS OF THE MEDICAL BOARD.

The reports were exaggerated; none of the stock or equipment was touched. The Medical Agents satisfied themselves with seizing cards containing the names and addresses of some of our recent patrons. The agents are our friends and they recommend their friends and relatives to take our herbs for none is working again as Fong Wan has not been in jail at all, but has been in his office daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. He wished to express his heartfelt appreciation to the hundred or more persons who made inquiry regarding his trouble, and regrets that on account of press of business he was not able to speak to them personally and thus assure them he is all right. On January 7th, the day after the reports appeared in the newspapers, he handled the largest volume of business that he has had in any one day during the past five months. Thus the mistake made by the reporters proved good advertising, as it brought many new people to this place.

Of all his former patrons who expressed their anxiety for him after reading the reports, perhaps the most solicitous was Mr. Edward Garrigues, who in 1918 suffered for eleven months from RHEUMATIC PARALYSIS. When the doctors could do nothing for him except inject MORPHINE into his arms to move an inch, a living, helpless skeleton, screaming day and night with pain, Mrs. W. A. HERS, they had secured my herbs, and bought herbs which nourished and restored the suffering body to normal. Fong Wan Co. also supplied her with some herb powder which she mixed with an equal quantity of flour and, after frying, like a pancake, applied hot over the swollen knee joint. Within a short time Mr. Garrigues was able to walk with crutches, and a little later he gave Fong Wan Company a glad surprise by coming to the office and bounding right up the steps.

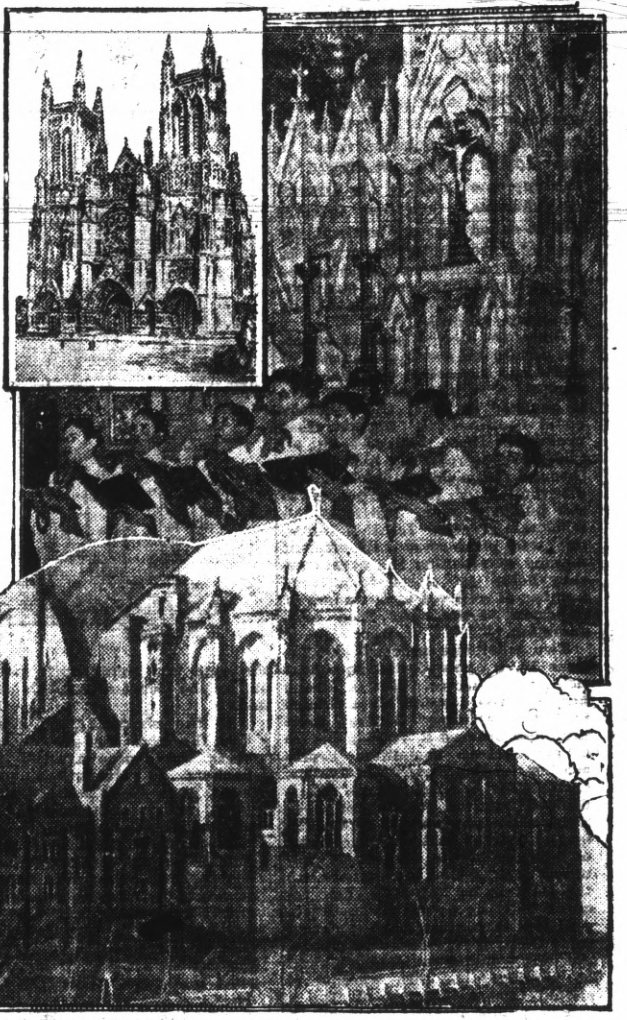

In 1919 Mr. Garrigues went to Alaska, where he stayed three years, but his pains did not return. He returned in that cold climate. He has now returned to his home in Oakland and is working again as a machinist. At his request, we are reprinting the testimonial that he gave us after his recovery some six years ago. He is still in excellent health, and when he called the other day, emphatically stated that had it not been for Fong Wan, unless death had intervened, he would today most probably have been a HELPLESS, CRIPPLED DRUG FIEND.

The Following Testimonial Is Convincing THE RESULTS OBTAINED FROM FONG WAN HERBS A Case of Rheumatic Paralysis in Oakland OAKLAND, CALIF.

I suffered terribly from a sort of Rheumatic Paralysis. Before I had the stroke, I was a worker in the Moore Shipyard and I weighed 180 pounds. Suddenly one night in February, 1918, I waked paralyzed. I was unable to move in bed, even a few inches. Three prominent physicians attended me, but all expressed the opinion that I could not live. My knees, arms and wrists were all swollen to three times their normal size, while my legs were shrunken to half bone, the skin hanging loose upon them.

so great that my weight was reduced to eleven months, and my pain was had given up hope for me, and when I suggested trying the FONG WAN HERBS, they said I surely would be useless. My wife, however, went for the herbist. Within a short time after I began to take his herbs, I could get out of bed, in fact, at the end of a few weeks I was able to go to his office. I am now as strong as I was before my stroke. My weight is 185 pounds and I have been absolutely well ever since.

This letter is an expression of gratitude. I shall be glad to answer the questions of any one who wishes to know more about my case. EDWARD GARRIGUES, 721 18th St.

ant metal parts such as flashings, gutters and downspouts are constructed of copper, a metal whose workmanship has been proved by its centuries of service upon churches and cathedrals in England and on the continent. Various water pipes are of brass. Qualified critics say that the finest cathedrals of Europe will not excel the Cathedral of St.

He has now returned to his home in Oakland and is working again as a machinist. At his request, we are reprinting the testimonial that he gave us after his recovery some six years ago. He is still in excellent health, and when he called the other day, emphatically stated that had it not been for Fong Wan, unless death had intervened, he would today most probably have been a HELPLESS, CRIPPLED DRUG FIEND.

The Following Testimonial Is Convincing THE RESULTS OBTAINED FROM FONG WAN HERBS A Case of Rheumatic Paralysis in Oakland OAKLAND, CALIF.

I suffered terribly from a sort of Rheumatic Paralysis. Before I had the stroke, I was a worker in the Moore Shipyard and I weighed 180 pounds. Suddenly one night in February, 1918, I waked paralyzed. I was unable to move in bed, even a few inches. Three prominent physicians attended me, but all expressed the opinion that I could not live. My knees, arms and wrists were all swollen to three times their normal size, while my legs were shrunken to half bone, the skin hanging loose upon them.

so great that my weight was reduced to eleven months, and my pain was had given up hope for me, and when I suggested trying the FONG WAN HERBS, they said I surely would be useless. My wife, however, went for the herbist. Within a short time after I began to take his herbs, I could get out of bed, in fact, at the end of a few weeks I was able to go to his office. I am now as strong as I was before my stroke. My weight is 185 pounds and I have been absolutely well ever since.

This letter is an expression of gratitude. I shall be glad to answer the questions of any one who wishes to know more about my case. EDWARD GARRIGUES, 721 18th St.

EDITORIAL SECTION

MANY people ask, "Why should we purchase an Automobile?" Their usual comment is, "We can't afford such a Luxury" It is these people whom we wish to talk to and explain the vast difference between the people with a car and those without one:

The range of territory over which one can easily travel in a motor car, and the range, walking or limited by a street car, are so vastly at variance that it might be well to say a few words about the subject.

A man walking covers, as you know about three or four miles an hour, but even at that snails pace, he is very limited, he can't keep it up for much more than an hour without resting. He is tied down to a very small area, he must needs be narrow in his view point he cannot reach out, expand, grow and utilize the possibilities which have been provided for him, to take, if he only will take advantage of what man has devised for his benefit. Why always be limiting your opportunities? Why not have what is your right? The motor car is the greatest invention of the century. It enlarges man's scope, places him in a new environment, it's like giving wings to the Snail, it makes him a new species. Man with a motor car lives many years in the span of one life under the old regime.

Not to have one is to set yourself back, to the methods of your forefathers, to the back breaking toil, to the lack, of a convenience, which today is a necessity. The man without a motor car, is an antiquated animal, He's a thing of the past, He's not keeping up the pace.

What does all this cost? This lending of speed and power to man. Why it is so absurdly small a cost that we wonder why any one hesitates. One dollar and thirty-three cents per day, think of it—And what vast gifts it brings you, one dollar and thirty-three cents brings enormous interest to the family, with that meagre investment. They own their rightful share in all the beauties and relaxations that this unique and marvelous California affords.

Trout fishing in the roaring mountain streams, camping at the edge of the eternal snows, exploring interesting out of the way nooks, crowned by Nature's magnificence.

Why deprive the family of these? You only have one life on this earth. Why not make it a merry one.

One and only one car offers you all these advantages for ONE DOLLAR AND THIRTY THREE CENTS PER DAY. Just consider this for a moment. What does a movie show cost? What do you spend for amusements? Add it up. Can these expenditures compare with one dollar and thirty three cents? Which do you prefer? To stay in the small never enlarging circle. Seeing the same things, doing the same things day after day, getting deeper and deeper in the old rut, getting old, no improvement for yourself or children. Or spending one dollar and thirty-three cents per day for one year - - - Assuring better health, a broader view of everything, a greater growth, mentally, physically, morally, and on every day convenience which will save its upkeep in a larger field of marketing and other household economies, through the medium of economical transportation.

I submit the New Chevrolet at One Dollar and Thirty Three Cents Per Day.

The writer of this editorial highly recommends the New Chevrolet.
